

FIRST APPEARANCE IN DESERT WARFARE

Paratroop Assault Cracked Tobruk's Inner Defences

Hesitancy Of British In Deciding Counter-Stroke Blamed For Libya Debut

By RICHARD D. McLELLAN
CAIRO, June 23.—(BUP)—Tobruk fell after 26 hours of the grimmest fighting ever known in the Libyan desert, and it fell because the out-maneuvred defenders delayed too long in making the move which might have saved them.

In the most critical stage of the assault, the Germans reportedly used paratroops to seize the inner defenses of the town. It was their hesitancy in the two years of desert warfare, although British officials had feared that the Axis had them in readiness in western Libya.

The Axis forces attacked the coastal garrison before 7 a.m. Saturday. Heavy artillery laid down a bombardment, with Stuka dive-bombers augmenting the elevation. Then tractor-borne infantry advanced behind a screen of tanks.

MADE TWO BREAKS

The attackers, including the Italian Tropic and Ariete divisions, breached the defenses at two points, making inevitable the surrender which came the next day. Picked shock troops carried out the first main assault, from the southwest. Two hours of terrible slogging tactics ensued as the heavy hurled waves of armor and infantry advanced behind a screen of tanks.

As one wave advanced, supporting tanks scattered lavishly. While this force was engaged, a second wave of armor, estimated at between 20 and 40, widened the gap in the southwest. Another strong line of armor, supported by infantry, dashed down the main road toward Tobruk from El Adem, in the south, and there began another bloody struggle.

The British sent out two strong tank forces to meet the enemy pouring down the road from El Adem, but they ran into a ceaseless hail of shells from artillery which the Germans had dragged to the desert. One by one, the Imperial tanks were smashed.

Two hours after the start of this southern attack, Axis tanks commanded the crossroads of the highway from the British to El Adem and Ghat, in the east.

HEROIC RESISTANCE
Despite heroic efforts by the British to establish road blocks, the Germans had little difficulty in cranking forward and entered the town of Tobruk shortly before darkness. "First blood all night," said a British officer, "and the town was destroyed stores. Minor battles continued in the moonlight, with the enemy seeking to establish a beachhead."

The inferno was resumed at full blast at dawn Sunday. Enemy tanks scattered lavishly all along the perimeter of Tobruk's defenses, battling against continuous gunfire, but from continuous firing were matted by exhausted crews.

It was only a matter of time before the enemy was to make good the entire battle, and the last gallant bands of defenders surrendered.

As one looks back on it, the fall of Tobruk was one of the most striking in the history of the war, for the quickness of Nazi decision, boldness in maneuvering and superiority in tactics. In the hands of the British force sent back and, and the enemy to make every move.

Labor Shortage Imperils Output Of Canada Mines

By GRANT DEXTER

Edmonton Bulletin Bureau

OTTAWA, June 23.—Active shortages of manpower in mining camps is imperilling the output of vital raw materials of war.

This statement, made by reputable mining publications and confirmed here Monday by the mines branch of the Mines and Resources Department, reveals the latest critical turn of events on the home front.

Right now the output of copper in Western Canada is falling off due to lack of manpower. The reduction in gold production, no longer viable for export for war, is saving the output of base metals in Ontario and Quebec. Gold mine workers are transferring to nickel and other base metal mines. This, however, is regarded as only a temporary palliative.

The mine operators point out that they have been recruiting labor from the farms, but the freeing of agricultural labor plus the exemption from military service, has pretty well shut off this source.

On the other hand, there is a steady movement of labor from heavy industry and mining to the war industry. This movement is not checked by any existing existing service regulation. Meantime, the drain on mining manpower for the army continues.

NEED TO EXPAND

In addition to the present output of these base metals, there is an urgent need to expand the mining industry by producing metals vitally required for war. One such is tungsten-carbide. It is urgently needed for the production of armor-piercing shells and bullets, and substantial quantities can be produced in Canada under sufficient manpower is available to do the work.

All along the mining and heavy industry front today the reluctance to army expansion is becoming more vocal.

Ration Postponed

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—The start of permanent gasoline rationing in the eastern United States was postponed last night for July 15 to July 22 in order to give motorists an extra week in which to organize car-pooling clubs.

Is YOUR JOB wearing, too?

Here's a tip for sit-down workers...

Sitting all day at a desk or work table doesn't give much chance for healthy exercise. So guard against the headachy, heavy feeling that so often means incomplete elimination. Take these two steps to health: (1) To get well, see your doctor; (2) To keep well, watch your diet. Make sure your elimination is complete, but shun harsh cathartics. Get enough "bulk" in your diet to keep the food waste moving promptly. Start every morning with a bowl of crunchy Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. Gently laxative, they help supply valuable mineral proteins, too. And they're so fresh and crisp, so delicious, you'll want them every day! Look for Kellogg's Bran Flakes in the golden yellow package. Comes in two convenient sizes. And when you breakfast on either the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

OTTAWA, June 23.—(CP)—Canadians voted in record numbers in the April 27 plebiscite to support the government's plan for conscription on military service.

Voters totaling 4,538,847, or 80,000 more than in the 1940 election, participated in the 1942 plebiscite, the previous high.

Final official figures released today by the Minister of the Interior, Mr. J. G. Macdonald, showed that 514 Canadians—citizens and alien—voted "yes" 1,643,006 "no" 3,895,841.

Risky To Take On A Ready-Made Family

Bachelor Contemplating Marriage Is Told to Consult Husbands; He Must Be Prepared to Give Up a Lot of His Freedom

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a bachelor, 41 years old, and am contemplating marrying a widow who has a 7-year-old daughter; the widow's mother lives with her. I feel that the situation is a delicate one and if I handle it right we will be very happy together, but if I handle it poorly I will surely find that I were a bachelor again. I want to know if I prepare myself for the very important job I am undertaking or not.

Dorothy Dix

Answer: To make any marriage a success requires the wisdom of a sage and the patience and forbearance of a saint, but to marry a widow who has the "dead departed" as a yardstick to measure you against, and the further complications of a child whom you may be jealous, and a mother-in-law who probably is bossy, you will indeed need to possess a few more outstanding characteristics of Solomon and Job.

In order to prepare yourself for the task you are about to undertake, first of all, divert yourself of all your bachelor habits and peculiarities. Up to now you have been the central figure in your little life and you have been to come and go as you please. Eat where you please. Stay in or stay out as you please. Spend all your money on yourself. Marry the widow and her child and mother-for without it changing it you will be committing matrimony—and all this will be changed.

In all likelihood you will have to learn to what your predecessor thought on every subject and have a post-mortem performance thrown up to you. Mama and the little girl

McCoy Health Service

Many diseases of the scalp are caused by lack of cleanliness and lack of care in shampooing. Dust and dirt collect readily upon the hair and work down into the scalp, clogging up the pores. When the scalp is in this condition, it is very easy for infection to develop. The cure of almost any infection of the scalp and hair is dependent upon cleanliness than the use of antiseptics or lotions.

Many people realize the necessity of keeping the body clean for health but they do not realize that it is just as important to keep the scalp free of impurities.

After the hair when a shampoo is improperly used, the natural oil of the scalp may be removed and the scalp becomes dry, but this will not cure if the right method of shampooing is used. Whenever possible, distilled water or rain water should be used. The hair should first be washed with warm water and then thoroughly lathered with a good toilet soap or shampoo. The hair should be well worked and the scalp massaged gently. Then all of the soap should be washed out. Repeat this process with the soap. Then wash the hair out again and rinse well with clean water. Give the hair a thorough drying, using a large Turkish towel.

After the hair has been dried, rub a teaspoonful of coconut oil, olive oil or some other oil into the palms of the hands and thoroughly massage this into the scalp and hair roots. This will give the hair another coating of oil to replace that which has been washed out and in this way the hair will be restored. The shampooing of the hair will be improved for very much the same reason as the application of a polish to your automobile. The entire scalp for several weeks until the scales are removed and the excess sebum is removed with another clean towel.

If you have any disease of the scalp, such as dandruff, this will be repeated every day or every other day for several weeks until the scales are removed and the excess sebum is removed with another clean towel.

If you thoroughly massage the scalp, in addition to using the right method of shampooing you will improve the circulation and in this way avoid becoming bald.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must be worded 100 words. Address: McCoy, Los Angeles, Calif.

One of the complications of an economic situation which drives families to live together is the increase of the grandparent upon their own children or her in-law. It is inevitable that some grandparent will not be familiar with the latest-day ideas.

Many people realize the necessity of keeping the body clean for health but they do not realize that it is just as important to keep the scalp free of impurities.

After the hair when a shampoo is improperly used, the natural oil of the scalp may be removed and the scalp becomes dry, but this will not cure if the right method of shampooing is used. Whenever possible, distilled water or rain water should be used. The hair should first be washed with warm water and then thoroughly lathered with a good toilet soap or shampoo. The hair should be well worked and the scalp massaged gently. Then all of the soap should be washed out. Repeat this process with the soap. Then wash the hair out again and rinse well with clean water. Give the hair a thorough drying, using a large Turkish towel.

After the hair has been dried, rub a teaspoonful of coconut oil, olive oil or some other oil into the palms of the hands and thoroughly massage this into the scalp and hair roots. This will give the hair another coating of oil to replace that which has been washed out and in this way the hair will be restored. The shampooing of the hair will be improved for very much the same reason as the application of a polish to your automobile. The entire scalp for several weeks until the scales are removed and the excess sebum is removed with another clean towel.

If you have any disease of the scalp, such as dandruff, this will be repeated every day or every other day for several weeks until the scales are removed and the excess sebum is removed with another clean towel.

If you thoroughly massage the scalp, in addition to using the right method of shampooing you will improve the circulation and in this way avoid becoming bald.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must be worded 100 words. Address: McCoy, Los Angeles, Calif.

IN AIR TRAINING PLAN

Canadian "Front Line" Girls Filling Key Positions

AUDREY FRY, Tottenham, is qualified both as a carpenter's helper and tractor driver. She works in the maintenance shop-at present.

GERALDINE DEERY, New York, charges oxygen tanks of planes before trainees take off for flight.

CLAIRE SUTHERLAND of Winnipeg is a highly trained worker in the shop where instruments are assembled.

GERRY BRISON does real "man's work" at crank of a twin-motor Anson training plane.

JEAN JOLLIFFE, former photographic model, is first Canadian girl in the important job of radio plane dispatcher.

GLADYS ISBELL, Toronto, stands by with a fire extinguisher, ready for action should an airplane motor catch fire when it is first started.

Brenda Marshall—Mrs. William Holden to you—includes her pet feline, Tiger Eyes, in the argument, in spite of the evident disapproval of the beast. Miss Marshall is prominent in Warners' brilliant picturization of Margaret Kennedy's novel, "The Constant Nymph" which stars Charles Boyer and Joan Fontaine.

It's Nancy Coleman

Nancy Coleman—who was widely acclaimed for her performance in Warners' "Kings Row" is now cast as one of that astounding trio—"The Gay Sisters," the others being Barbara Stanwyck and Geraldine Fitzgerald. George Brent is also starred, and others prominent in the cast are Gig Young, Peter Lorre, Gene Lockhart, Donald Woods, Charles Waldron, Helen Thimig, Larry Simms, Mary Thomas, Carol Joyce Combes and David Clyde. She is also with Errol Flynn, Ronald Reagan and Raymond Massey in melodramatic modern day "Desperate Journey."

This Is Canadian Just Before Sinking From Three Torpedo Hits Off Mexico

Crew members take their last look at their vessel, a Toronto oil tanker, as it heels to starboard just before sinking, after being struck by a torpedo from a U-boat "somewhere off Mexico." Minutes after this picture was taken aboard one of the two lifeboats that cleared the ship, a submarine surfaced and sank the tanker with gunfire. It had remained afloat two hours after three enemy torpedo hits in its vitals. Crewmen off shift were trapped in their bunks in damaged parts of the ship, and the picture shows that many escaped only in their underwear. But not a single man was lost.

Tough: Plane And Pilot

R.A.F. pilot stands beside American-built Tomahawk plane he brought home after explosive shell hit tail over the African desert.

Son Of Well-Known Hockeyist-Contractor Missing

Sergeant Pilot Joe Dutton had made his fifteenth flight with R.C.A.F. bombing squadrons over Germany recently. Then he made his sixteenth and did not return. He is officially reported "missing." Joe had been overseas nearly a year. His father, the old Princess Pat hero of that other war, is in Calgary at the head of a construction company. Alex, the youngster, is at Pickering college taking an examination today. He has been eager to join his brothers for months, had to be forcibly restrained in school by his parents last fall. His brother Norman is with an air unit "somewhere in Scotland." From left to right: Norman, Alex, "Papa" Dutton, the flaming hockey leader, and Sgt. Joe.

Camp Borden troops polish off a tank with "Molotov cocktails" in a preview of military shows for Army Week from June 29 to July 5.

Minister Lauds Noble Service

John M. Imrie

Below is the text of the address presented by Rev. W. G. Wilson, M.A., D.D., at the funeral services for the late John M. Imrie, at Robertson United church on Monday afternoon.

It is the expressed wish of the family that this service should be the brief and simple one which they are fittingly. A man who has spent a score of years in this city, and has been so intimately associated with its life, has not extended loyalty from anyone. From coast to coast the journalists have lived with each other in paying tribute to one whom they knew well, respected highly, and admired greatly. Except in the passing of reality or nobility I never seen the man so generous in his praise, and men who usually write with reserve about all that remain when they told of the work and worth of John Imrie.

STANDARD POINTS

To one who has not lived long in Alberta, probably the most striking thing about the late Mr. Imrie was the variety and diversity of his interests and activities. It seems almost incredible that he could have yielded himself to so many different worthwhile enterprises. And he did, not by mere accident, but by merely lending his name as a patron, but into everything he touched. He put his rare judgment, his wide experience and his boundless energy just as he did in the life of his business life.

The late Mr. Imrie's influence can never be adequately estimated, and certainly never overestimated. From the time he arrived in Alberta as a young man, his efforts were always directed towards uniting and strengthening the ties between his province and his country. He was the property of Canada as much as he was of his own province of the Dominion under every part of obligation.

It is not necessary to repeat what has been so well said in the press, nor is it desirable to mention the great institutions which he has helped to build, nor the many things which are the richer for his giving and generous spirit. Those things are known to all Edmontonians. When word went around on Friday morning that he had slipped away from us in his sleep, a high sorrow came to the city. Men and women stopped in the streets, on the street, and in the house, and said, "He is gone." He was a wonderful man, a man of great courage, a man of humble heart, the highest that is what one could hear in every part of Edmonton, and a man who, for every walk of life, his memorial is the hearts of a grateful people.

GENEROUS TO CHURCH

But in this congregation know what the outer world in the nature of the church in highest esteem, and know how he loved this church, and how he did it, he did it with a spirit so unselfish that it was so unobtrusive about it that few of the present congregation may be aware of it. He was a man of the highest integrity, and he was so unobtrusive about it that few of the present congregation may be aware of it. He was a man of the highest integrity, and he was so unobtrusive about it that few of the present congregation may be aware of it.

I first met the late Mr. Imrie in a church in Victoria. He came to the conference meeting in 1904, and when Sunday morning came he and some other journalists came to the church where I was the minister. Mr. Imrie and the other journalists called to speak after the service. They introduced themselves as newspapermen.

The first man came from the far west of Canada. He was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel. He was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel. He was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel.

UNBROKEN CONVICTION That was many years ago, but it expressed his conviction then and remained his unbroken belief. I saw him several times during that period, and he was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel.

I saw him several times during that period, and he was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel. He was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel. He was a man of mark, that the church was losing ground because it did not preach a stern gospel.

From this time forth and ever more. One of the most outstanding characteristics in Mr. Imrie's life was his clear-cut conviction and determination to adhere to them at all costs. I believe that the reason is that the role of his life went down deep into an unshaken faith in him.

Several press notices referred to his passing at the age of 58 as a tragedy, still looked upon as a premature death, with such rich resources of mind and heart as he possessed. I do not share that view. I do not share that view. I do not share that view. I do not share that view. I do not share that view.

Militia Will Be Honored During Colorful Army Week Observances

An outstanding example of the merging in Canada of two racial traditions is the militia. It had its inception long before the taking of Quebec and when the country was transferred to British rule from the French the militia carried on. There was no dissolving of existing forces.

This militia formed the basis of the Canadian Army both in 1914-1918 and in the present conflict. In Army Week celebrations, which will commence here on Sunday June 22, the militia will be remembered as a grand parade of Garrison units, the militia will receive its just tribute.

Formed in 1665, the militia's early task was in defending white settlements from the Indians. Later the forces served with distinction against Britain and her North American colonies. Six militia battalions took part in the defence of Quebec in 1760.

FRESH CONVENTION The 17th battalions of Canadian militia were permanently embodied, each contingent serving for two years, when a fresh contingent relieved it, and some little time later, when they were paired with a view to the complete organization of the force.

The first of the fighting on the American frontier in 1812 was borne largely by the three battalions of militia, which were called out in 1822 a distinction had been made between French and British troops, but in that year this distinction was abolished.

AGAIN ACTIVE The militia was again on active service during the disturbances of 1837, and by the year 1862 had grown to a force of some 25,000 men. In the Peninsular wars of 1808 and 1809 the militia forces were once more called up.

After Confederation, in 1867, the militia force was reorganized on the basis of a Militia Act and a Department of Militia and Defence was set up under a responsible minister. Two years later, the militia numbered 6,000 men, and with the Peninsular wars of 1870 and took part in Lord Wolseley's Red River expedition.

In 1897 a good deal of attention was paid to the training of officers and the Royal Military College at Kingston was established. In 1898 the militia force was suppressed and the important action at Balaclava was won by the militia, which was the regular British troops. In the same year Canada contributed a force of 10,000 men to the Boer war.

Volunteers of all arms were also sent to South Africa during the war of 1899-1902. These included Strathcona's Horse, which was recruited almost entirely from the Active Militia and the North West Mounted Police. The latter, a permanent constabulary of mounted riflemen, which was sent to South Africa during the war of 1899-1902.

After the South African war there were extensive reorganizations of the Canadian militia, which then began to take its present form. It covered itself with glory on the fields of Flanders in the last war, but that is modern history too known to need repeating here.
